Housing & Utilities

FCC Emergency Broadband Benefit

The FCC Emergency Broadband Benefit program can help make home internet more affordable during the COVID-19 pandemic. Qualifying households will receive up to $50 per month towards broadband service (or $75 per month for households on qualifying Tribal lands*)*. In addition, households can also receive a one-time credit of up to $100 to help buy a device like a computer or tablet when they contribute more than $10 and less than $50 toward the purchase price.

How do I apply?

To apply, you can visit a this site or go directly to a participating provider.

Frequently Asked Questions

Who should I contact?

FCC Emergency Broadband Benefit
Website: https://www.fcc.gov/broadbandbenefit